Application

Network Integration of Medical Equipment

In modern hospitals, networking medical equipment is essential for improving healthcare efficiency and quality. Green network cables with M12 connectors at both ends can connect various large medical devices, such as CT scanners, MRI machines, and X-ray machines, to the hospital information system (HIS) and the Picture Archiving and Communication System (PACS).

This allows doctors to remotely access test results and images for diagnosis and case analysis. Additionally, data on equipment operating status can be transmitted through the cables to the maintenance department, facilitating timely maintenance and troubleshooting. The stability of M12 connectors and the green cables' compliance with environmentally friendly standards (meeting material requirements for medical settings) ensure secure and reliable medical data transmission, providing strong support for healthcare operations.
